Students use creations and coffee to get leg up on careers

By Shelly Miller

A newly-offered course called Career Creations and Coffee at West High School is giving students the opportunity to get a feel for what they might want to be "when they grow up."

Career Creations and Coffee focuses on business management and product production. Students create items such as lanyards, bracelets and key chains, as well as sell coffee to staff. It gives them entrepreneurial experience as well as the soft and technical skills necessary to be college and career-ready.

"Students have started this business from the ground up and worked hard to create a business that will continue throughout the years," said Heather Sellner, transition work experience coordinator at Mankato Area Public Schools. "They gain a hands-on understanding of everyday business management skills and work together to problem solve, budget and market their products."

At the end of the course, students determine their cost return on investment and donate funds to a local charity. Sellner said the opportunity allows students to be engaged and excited about their learning.
